

Letter

Ashley, my dear love, I am writing this letter to you because I own you an explication. There has not been a single night in which I have not dreamed about you, without you I do not feel like myself. I still remember the comfortable life we had during the war. The second Great War brought many misfortunes with itself, broken families, destroyed countries, corrupt governments, and many more. But the most important thing as you already know is that war makes the rich get richer. As an ambitious man myself I have always found new ways of earning more and more money, even with a company which grew as fast as mine, I still had to get more, so this is where the part of the story you do not know begins.

As you already know I was involved in politics during a brief amount of time, what you lack knowledge of is why I was thrown out of the British syndicate. The Great War had just started in 1939 and the news were spreading like wildfire. Even though I was strongly against it, Britain was about to enter the war, our government contrary to common thought was very encouraging of the war since they saw it as an opportunity to become what they once were, the most influential country in the world. Most of the people who were against the war got kicked out of the government.

During the war before the American intervention, Nazi Germany had the winning odds. What people did not realize is why was this happening, why were they Nazi forces managing to stand successful against more than half of Europe? The answer to this is their widespread web of spies.

The first time I was contacted by a spy occurred right after we came back to London from our winter break in our dear Marilyn House. Do you remember how we spent our whole days laughing near the crimson fire of our house in the Marilyns? Hidden between the emerald green trees of our forest, which only the wind dared bother. Getting back to topic these agents were very eager about obtaining information from within Britain, although at first I was not so keen about this idea, the amount of money they were offering me for each small meeting was just so immense that I could not refuse.

The money I got from them went into a secret savings fund I have, which is what I owe my life to. The meetings became very important but for me they got to an end with the American interference in 1941, the Nazi forced stopped having an endless supply of money, which led to smaller payments, making me withdraw from their little covert operation which put an end to my allegiance to them.

The main problem has been in development since 1942, our government started a so called operation of an "inner cleansing", a series of investigations to uncover who had been under contact with German spies. This started thanks to an ignorant fool that felt guilty and gave in to the government, the only thing he was rewarded with was both a death penalty and public execution. You might be wondering how I managed to sneak out of the country through this chaos, I'll tell you the whole story when we meet again, but lets just say that even though I am no scientist it had something to do with Operation Paperclip, thanks to Americans valuing money even more than me.

As I have told you many times, when it comes down to importance, you are the meaning of my life and the only person that completes me. I am troubled with figuring out a plan to get you through our borders safe and sound without suspicions. Know that you are being monitored by the government, but soon enough you will be with me. Apparently the only places where others will not bother us are our house in the Marilyns and soon enough in America.

I sincerely hope that you understand the grave situation that I am in and that you accept my most sincere apologies for everything that has happened up until now.

We will build our empire again.

Love -

Operation Paperclip – the secret United States Joint Intelligence Objectives Agency(JIOA) program in which more than 1 600 German scientists, engineers, and technicians*many of whom were formerly registered members of the Nazi Party and some of whom had leadership roles in in) were recruited and brought to the United States of America for government employment from post-Nazi Germany(after World War II) - Taken from Wikipedia.
